

Congratulations, you are a Charlotte!

You may be modest and can come across as serious or introverted, but nothing can repress your wry humour and the power of your perception. While it's possible that your cautious nature may make you a late bloomer romantically, you are very devoted to the object of your affections and inspire strong attachments in return.

Your drive, passion and creativity make you very self-motivated, yet you're always looking out to do your loved ones a good turn too. You can be over-protective or even a little domineering, and you need to beware of getting over-involved or over-functioning – remember, sometimes others know what's best for them or need to make their own mistakes, you can always say “I told you so” later!
